A collection of the best outdoor writing from The Sunday Times, featuring some of the world's leading nature writers.

From the rugged peaks of the Himalayas to the sun-kissed beaches of the Caribbean, from the dense jungles of the Our Book Library to the icy wastes of the Arctic, the natural world is a place of wonder and beauty, of danger and adventure. And for centuries, writers have been drawn to the outdoors, seeking inspiration in its landscapes and its creatures.

My Outdoor Life: The Sunday Times is a collection of the best outdoor writing from the archives of The Sunday Times, one of the world's leading newspapers. Featuring some of the world's most celebrated nature writers, including Robert Macfarlane, Melissa Harrison, and Patrick Barkham, this book offers a unique insight into the natural world and the human experience of it.

The essays in this collection cover a wide range of topics, from the joys of walking to the challenges of climbing, from the beauty of wildlife to the threats facing the environment. But what unites them all is a deep love of the outdoors and a desire to share its wonders with others.

Whether you're an experienced hiker or a armchair traveler, My Outdoor Life: The Sunday Times is a book that will inspire and entertain you. It is a celebration of the natural world and a reminder of the importance of spending time outdoors.
