Jemeker was born in 1958 in South Carolina. She grew up in a poor family, and she started selling drugs as a teenager. She quickly rose through the ranks of the drug world, and by the early 1990s, she was one of the biggest drug dealers in the United States.

Jemeker's success was due in part to her intelligence and business acumen. She was a master strategist, and she was always able to find new ways to make money. She also had a reputation for being ruthless, and she was not afraid to use violence to get what she wanted.

Jemeker's drug empire was based in Atlanta, but she had connections all over the world. She smuggled cocaine and marijuana into the United States from Colombia, Mexico, and other countries. She also laundered money through a variety of businesses, including banks, car dealerships, and nightclubs.

Jemeker's success did not come without a price. She was constantly under threat from rival drug dealers, and she was also targeted by law enforcement. In 1997, she was arrested and charged with drug trafficking and money laundering. She was convicted and sentenced to 25 years in prison.

Jemeker Thompson Hairston's story is a fascinating and cautionary tale. It is a story of ambition, power, and greed. It is also a story of the resilience of the human spirit.
